

Extraterrestrial Aliens and Reptilian Gods in the Quran, Pt IX
by Amir Fatir

Continued from December 2006: Another verse says the wind flowed "to the land we blessed." That usually refers to Palestine. Therefore, if Solomon had to send his command to the blessed land, he wasn't based in the blessed land. He received his command from somewhere else using "the wind" (radio waves?) to carry it.

And of the Shayateen there were others who dived for him and did other work Besides that. and We kept guard over them.

--Quran 21:82
Solomon forced the devils (Shayateen) and Jinn to dive for him. Remember before the Anunnaki began mining in Southern Africa, they dived under water for gold from the sea. "We" guarded them to ensure that they worked even though they didn't want to.

It is clear, from the above verses, that Solomon was a king outside of the land of Canaan who ruled over rebellious, chained, angry, humiliated Anunnaki who were accomplished in many technologies such as building. The other Anunnaki ("We") kept guard over the Jinn slaves and punished any disobedience severely.

Once the work moved to the South African gold mines, the punishment became a living hell for the Anunnaki. It was because of that situation that the Anunnaki rebelled and took Enlil hostage. This was the real reason that the Annunaki authorized the was created in the difficult circumstance of Anunnaki slave labor, rebellion and near-assassination of Enlil. Because the Anunnaki were in a hurry to get gold for Nibiru the Quran says: "Man has created from haste" (21:37). To assure that the manufactured slave could not overcome his makers, the Quran says "man was created weak" (4:28). No animal as large as man is as weak as man. Based upon size, man should be five times as strong as he is. Apparently, humans were deliberately weakened by Enki's genetic engineering.

O Iblis, what prevented you from submitting
To him whom I created with my two hands?

-- Quran 38:75
Allah's hands indicated his physical manipulation of genes in a test tube (potter's flask) to make man. The early efforts to clone a hybrid were unsuccessful. The first clones were imperfect. Some had organs outside the body, others could not hold their urine, some were blind. Thus the Quran states that "God" gave you hearing and sight.

Some of the creations were monsters. Eventually, Enki decided to "bind the image of the gods" on man by mixing his own semen into the brew.

Surely We created man from mixed sperm,
To try him, so We made him hearing, seeing.

-- Quran 76:2
He created man from a small life-germ,
And lo! He is an open creation of man.

THE SLAVE WORKER ADAM

and there was not a man to till the ground.

--Genesis 2:5

If there were no people, why would there even be a need to till the ground? Certainly, the animals did not demand it. The only beings on earth who'd need tilled land were the Annunaki. So Adam was made to fulfil a need, to be a farm laborer or slave for the gods.

And I have not created the Jinn And the men except to serve me

-- Quran 51:56

This creator god is therefore a slave master. This is no spirit being. This is a being who walks, had hands and feet, who eats, accepts food offering which sometimes has to be cooked and even demands the first born of animals and humans to be offered up as sacrifices to him. Sometimes they were commanded to give the Lord salt so he could season his food.

And God said, Let us make man in Our image after our likeness.

-- Genesis 1:26

The "us" refers to the Anunnaki Assembly who authorized Enki to fashion a lulu slave laborer. The Anunnaki DNA was used to give him physical resemblance to the creators.

We certainly created man in difficulty.

Does he think no one has power over him?

-- Quran 90: 4-5

contender.

-- Quran 16:4

The mixed sperm is Enki's. Elsewhere it is called "a fluid despised" because the Enlil clan battled against Enki's offspring. Also, since Enki was always trying to use subterfuge to impregnate unwilling goddesses, something may have been defective about Enki's seed.

That however, is unlikely. More likely is the Anunnaki belief that a son born of man and his half-sister was superior to a son between people who were unrelated. Because Ninhursag was Enki's half-sister, he tried desperately to impregnate her. The child by her was a girl, however, and thus not in line for rule over the Anunnaki. Because Sara was Abraham's half-sister, their child (Isaac) had precedence over Ishmael even though Ishmael was older. He created man from clay like pottery.

-- Quran 55:14

This – as well as all the created from clay passages – refers to man's beginning in clay pottery flasks. Egyptian history says Ptah (Enki) created man on a potter's wheel. Other cultures also say that man was created in clay pottery. And certainly We created man from An extract from clay.

-- Quran 23: 12

The Anunnaki used an element found in clay to "bind" the genetic fusion of man with Anunnaki DNA. But man was far from perfect. He had innumerable defects.

To be continued ...

Amir Fatir has studied the Quran since 1969. After teaching himself to read Arabic in 1976 he was surprised to find that many passages of the Quran corroborated the theories exposed by scholars who held that earth had once been colonized by ancient astronauts. Amir is a student of many ancient spiritual traditions

*including Egyptian, Sumerian, Yogic and Taoist systems. He is a novelist and social commentator.
<http://amirfatir.tripod.com>. He can be reached at amirfatir@go.com*